COMMUNITY ANNOUNCEMENTS & EVENTS

Practical Tools and Information for Gender Equality in the Legal Profession: HBA Gender Fairness Committee CLE on June 30

This keynote program, previously scheduled as a breakfast in April, is designed to assist Houston legal employers in taking meaningful action toward retaining and increasing the number of women in their organizations and leadership positions. The featured speakers are affiliated with or have been engaged with nationally preeminent non-profits that track and report data regarding the progress toward gender parity. That data is critical in the legal profession. This event will spotlight national surveys that serve as an important step toward the goal of gender parity in the law. The event will provide attendees with tools to take enduring action toward gender parity in the coming year.

Berkeley Law's AALJ Call for Article Submissions

UC Berkeley Law's Asian American Law Journal (AALJ) is one of only two law journals focused on Asian American communities. Known as the Asian Law Journal until 2007, we first published in October 1993 in a joint publication with the California Law Review. AALJ provides a scholarly forum for the exploration of unique legal concerns of Asian Americans, including but not limited to the East Asian, South Asian, Southeast Asian, and Asian Pacific American communities. AALJ publishes annually, and each volume typically contains articles, book reviews, essays, and other contributions from scholars, practitioners, and students. AALJ welcomes commentary, analysis, and research on the experiences and concerns of Asian Americans, including the intersections of gender, class, sexual orientation, religion and race.

AALJ invites AABA's members to submit an article, essay, book review, transcript of a previous lecture, or other contribution on civil rights, immigrant rights, or any other area of your interest relating to Asian Americans and the law. Authors may submit a piece by emailing us directly at aalj@berkeley.edu, or by submitting through Scholastica or ExpressO. AALJ smake offers for publication on a rolling basis as submissions are received, but the deadline for submissions is August 15, 2020.

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Asian American Law Journal

August 15, 2020 | aalj@berkeley.edu

WHO ARE WE?

The Asian American Law Journal (AALJ) is one of only two law journals focused on Asian American communities. First published in 1993 in a joint publication with the California Law Review, we were known as the Asian Law Journal until 2007. AALJ provides a scholarly forum for the exploration of unique legal concerns of Asian Americans

WHAT ARE WE LOOKING FOR?

We welcome commentary, analysis, and research on the experiences and concerns of Asian Americans. We are looking for articles, essays, book reviews, transcripts of previous lectures, and other contributions on civil rights, immigrant rights, or any other area of your interest relating to Asian Americans and the law.

HOW DO YOU SUBMIT?

You can submit directly to us by emailing aalj@berkeley.edu. We also accept submissions through Scholastica or ExpressO. We make offers for publication on a rolling basis as submissions are received. Our deadline for submissions is August 15, 2020.
